

Time to Teach: Strategies for Managing Discipline in the Classroom

Nancy Cole Hough

Educator and National Director, Center for Teacher Effectiveness

Description of the Action Lab

Time, it has been said, is the coin of learning. Yet every teacher, administrator, and student has known the frustration of losing valuable instruction time to matters of discipline. For some teachers and for some students, the amount of time lost is very great. Time to Teach is a program proven to restore that lost time to teachers and students in a way that is simple, fair, and mutually respectful. This workshop will help you recognize the needs of these students and learn methods to reduce problem behavior immediately. Learn strategies today which will help you in your classrooms tomorrow!

About Nancy Cole Hough

Nancy Cole Hough is a 27-year veteran public school teacher from Spokane, WA. She holds three degrees from Eastern Washington University: a B.A. in French and Spanish, a B.A. in Education, and a M.Ed. In Supervision of Instruction. Nancy's passion is helping teachers improve instruction in the classroom. She has been doing this for the past 20 years, which includes the international arena for the field of world language acquisition. She is presently a certified trainer and a National Director for the Time to Teach program, which focuses on giving encouragement, empowerment and excellence to teachers and students in the classroom.

Target Audience

Classroom Teachers, Administrators